

South Plains Financial, Inc. Announces the Acquisition of West Texas State Bank in Odessa, Texas

July 25, 2019

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 25, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- South Plains Financial, Inc. (NASDAQ:SPFI) ("South Plains" or the "Company"), the parent company of City Bank, today announced the entry into a merger agreement with West Texas State Bank, Odessa, Texas ("WTSB"), whereby South Plains will acquire WTSB in an all cash transaction valued at $76.1 million. As a result of the transaction, WTSB will be merged with and into SPFI's wholly-owned banking subsidiary, City Bank, with City Bank continuing as the surviving bank. As of June 30, 2019, WTSB had $429 million in assets, $205 million in loans, and $376 million in deposits.

The transaction strengthens South Plains' position as a leading Texas community bank with 26 branches and 13 mortgage production offices across Texas, while expanding its geographic footprint into the Permian Basin, including the Midland and Odessa MSAs. Upon closing, South Plains will have approximately $3.2 billion in assets, $2.1 billion in loans and $2.7 billion in deposits, based on the balance sheets of South Plains and WTSB as of June 30, 2019.

Curtis Griffith, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of South Plains, commented, "We are pleased to announce the Company's acquisition of WTSB, an exciting first step in our expansion into new West Texas communities and an important milestone since completing our IPO in May. WTSB shares a similar culture as South Plains with a longstanding commitment to their employees, customers and the communities that they serve, which creates a perfect union. Additionally, the merger will leverage our existing infrastructure which will provide scale benefits as we strive to deliver value for all of our stakeholders. We look forward to welcoming WTSB's employees and customers to South Plains."

Jay Phillips, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of WTSB, said, "We are excited to join a successful, community-focused organization that is recognized for their customer service, dedication to their employees, and their financial commitment to their local communities. We are proud to join an organization with a true understanding of the independent spirit of West Texas and we look forward to working with South Plains and their management team to make the completion and integration of our companies a success."

Cory Newsom, President of South Plains, stated, "We believe that our partnership with WTSB is an efficient use of the capital raised in the Company's recently-completed IPO."

The merger agreement has been unanimously approved by the boards of directors of South Plains, City Bank and WTSB, and is subject to customary closing conditions, including the approvals of bank regulatory agencies and WTSB's shareholders. The merger is expected to close in the fourth quarter of 2019.
